FOUND DEAD IN SHACK.

Perpetrator of Awful Crime May Have Escaped.

Vancouver, B. C., March 24.—Seven weeks ago John Spittal was murdered in his shack near Terra Nova, on the Fraser river, and only now has the crime been brought to light. At the inquest held at Eburne the other night the coroner's jury brought in a verdict of murder, and the provincial police are already on the track of the supposed homicide. The suspect is a young man whose name they decline to give, but who is not unfamiliar with the inside of a jail, he having served a three months' sentence in this city and his picture adorns the rogues' gallery. The murderer first shot his victim in the head, and while Spittal lay on the ground in his last agonies his slayer emptied his rifle into his neck, there being a hole through the right lung.

The crime was a very sudden occurrence. It is the theory of the neighbors that the young fellow was robbing the shack when Spittal suddenly returned from a day's duck hunting. The piffler, who had been under the impression that Spittal was far away in the Squamish hunting deer, raised his rifle as he saw the owner of the cabin on the threshold and the first shot took effect in the brain. Then the homicide dragged the body through the door into the shack, put another shot into it, went out, padlocked the door and fled.

When the police examined the premises they found a coat belonging to the suspect. A gun and a rifle are missing from the cabin, and it has been learned that the young fellow offered two such firearms for sale to a Vancouver milkman. That Spittal was first shot outside the cabin is shown by the marks of blood leading into the shack, proving that he had been dragged inside by his assailant. The evidence seems to show that the deed was committed on February 2 or 3, so that it was 46 days before the discovery was made.

The criminal, whoever he was, could be on the other side of the world by this time. Nobody knows whether Spittal had any money in his shack.
He was one of those quiet, inoffensive fellows, who keep their business to themselves.

Captain Cloke, formerly stationed at Fort Stevens, but who is now at San Francisco, will go east in September.
He has been appointed to a military post in New York. The following brief item which appeared recently in the San Francisco Bulletin will be of interest to the many local friends of the popular officer: Captain Harold E.

Cloke, artillery corps, U. S. A., is receiving hearty congratulations from his many friends on the honor which is his in a commendation from the war department on the excellence of his work and of the gunners under him.
Captain Cloke is one of the most brilliant young officers in the service and with his charming wife, who was Miss Alice Findley, will be sadly missed when the time comes for them to take station in the east."

KEPT POLICEMAN BUSY.

After Arresting Woman For Abusing Husband Bluecoat Runs Down Wife Beater.

San Francisco, March 24.—From rescuing a man who was being frightfully beaten by his wife, Policeman W.
M. Phillips had to run a short distance and rescue a woman who was being abused by her husband last night.

Phillips arrested the wife in the first instance and the husband in the other, and both were taken before Police Judge Morgan this morning on charges of disturbing the peace. The former went to the county jail for three months, but the man went free because his wife refused to prosecute and he made promises to be good.

Neighbors notified Officer Phillips that Annie Dunn was laying violent hands on her invalid husband at their home on Shipley street, between Fourth and Fifth streets. He found the man on the floor and the woman over him. Both were shouting at the top of their voices and the woman's hands were making loud smacks with unpleasant frequency.

With difficulty she was taken to the Southern police station. She was slightly under the influence of liquor and beat Dunn because he refused to give her more money with which to replenish her supply of liquor. Sometime ago she was sentenced to 90 days in jail for doing the same trick.

John Henry was the principal figure in the other domestic tragedy. He is a young man and a clerk, living on Clara street, near Fifth. He was intoxicated on his arrival home last evening. His wife protested and he became abusive and they were having a lively war of words until the wife ran out for a policeman.

Henry was of a contrite spirit this morning. He said whisky had caused him to be in a bad mood and he asserted that he would hereafter leave the liquor alone. He did not take the pledge, but his wife was willing to believe him. However, last night was the policeman's second visit to the Henry home and Judge Morgan said another visit would mean the county jail for Henry.
